The Young People's Christian Endeavor Convention

OPENED SESSIONS YESTERDAY

The Rev. Smith Extends a Warm and Fraternal Greeting-Committees Appointed-Evening Session.

Flags decorated the entrance to Hartman's hall yesterday afternoon and white satin badges adorned the mem bers of the Christian Endeavor delegates as they assembled to the number of one thousand and were seated in the broad auditorium. An artistic arrangement of Spanish bayonet plants and palms occupied the center of the platform and a beautiful floral piece in white outlined with amilaz bore the initials C. E. in red immortelles in the center. The state president, the Rev. C. H. Irving of West Bay City, Vice President Miss Dowlin of Muskegon, President Mass Dowlin of Muskegon, Secretary C. L. Stevens of Ypsilanti, the Rev. T. G. Smith, the Rev. J. Heritage, and General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. C. S. Ward occupied seats upon the platform. George D. Herrick conducted the singing and Miss E. L. Fisher played the accompaniments. The Rev. Wiley K. Wright of Petoskey mysiked the divine blessing and after invoked the divine blessing and after devotional exercises came an address of welcome by the Rev. T. G. Smith on behalf of the Grand Rapids unions.

Welcomed by the Eev. Smith. He said: "It is a happy privilege which I enjoy on this occasion in extending to you words of welcome. You exemplify in your lives the spirit of real Christianity. Here no difference in creed is noted. Our master is Jesus Christ and all are brethren. And now abideth faith, hope and love and the greatest of these is love. Love is the central power in Christian Endeavor work. Christian love is the secret of our work. May the tie which binds our hearts together increase in strength. We are glad you have come. The local union of the city of Grand Rapids numbers eleven societies, with upwards of 600 members, and we all bid you welcome, On behalf of the city pastors, the Rev. J. Heritage extended a cordial welcome. He said: "We welcome you because you are banded together in the most tender bond of Christian fellowship. It was said some time ago that the Christian Endeavor society was an infant. Yes, it is an infant, a healthy infant, its head reaches to Manitoba, its feet rest on the gulf of Mexico, its right hand reaches to the Pacific and its left hand reposes on the Atlantic. We give you a very hearty welcome into our homes and hearts, and pray that God may bless you abundantly. May God bless you."

Greeted by the Secretary. Then General Secretary Ward, on behalf of the Y. M. C. A., extended greeting in the following words:

"The older brother greets the young-Both have the same mother, the Christian church. Both work along the same lines, but neither conflicts with the other. It seems to me that any man who studies your work must believe that God has guided it. We will be glad to see you all, including the ladies, at our rooms in this city. We are sorry we cannot invite you to our beautiful new building which is being erected. but we welcome you to our rooms where one room has been specially reserved for you with pens, ink, paper and other conveniences. We hope when you return to your homes you nember that Grand Rapids has Y. M. C. A. and that you will carry some of the enthusiasm of this convention with you."

After the singing of a song the president responded to the various welcomes extended the societies. He prefaced his remarks with a story which excited considerable Proceeding, he said: "After these eloquent addresses I don't know what to say. I am glad to be here and I am sure that those from outside will be glad they are here and will be certain they are welcome. It devolves upon me to indicate what lines we should work along. The first is the line of intense earnestness. The great ery of the nour is for earnest, enthusastic men in all walks of life. They are wanted in every profession, in the medical and in the pulpit. We cannot forgive luke-warmness, especially in the pulpit.

All Should be Earnest. Profound earnestness rooted in God is demanded. I believe this Christian Endeavor of Young People is God-given. When the devil and his forces are intensely earnest shall we not be earnest also? I think I hear you say sye. yes. What kind of a spirit shall animate is when we have a world to rescue rom sip. The exmestness that you display will have its effect upon others. It will have a sympathetic power, and if there is anything that is needed to-day it is sympathy. The greatest work that can call our energies is the rescue of lost men. A man's belief has a mighty influence over his conduct. If a man's belief is pure his conduct is pure. I have had six years' experi-ence with Endeavorers and I can say that the most loyal young people of the quire loyalty sometimes to go to our church and prayer meetings. It requires loyalty to go into the parlor and somety and show what we are. But to be a Christian Endeavorer means to be leyal. We must progress along the line of consecrated Christian earnest-Now that means devotion on the Lord's day and upon six other days What means this consecration Does it mean that everyone must be a minister or a deacon? No, but it means that each life must be pure, oval and devoted to Christ.

OVER A THOUSAND DELEGATES

Report to the Secretary of the Endeavorers -Last Evening's Session.

A magnificent audience assembled at Hartman's hall last evening, nearly every seat in the vast room being taken, to attend the exercises of the Christian Endeavorers. The meeting opened with an organ voluntary by W. R. Corwith an organ voluntary by W. R. Cor-nelius, followed by song and prayer by the Rev. Gidden of Grand Ledge. The Rev. Irving presided and Mr. Herrick led the singing.

The report of the statistical secretary, B. R. Hoobler of Bay City, was pre-sented, showing that a total of 360 so-sented, showing that a total of 360 so-cieties were now in operation in the state with 18,000 members, whereas last year there were only 201 societies with 9000 members. One year ago there were 6500 active members, while this year there are 11,880. A total of ten denominations is represented with the denominations is represented with the Congregationalists leading with 145 so-cieties. During the past three years there have been forty disbandments. Michigan is quoted as having 37,000 Endeavorers, but this number comprises all who have ever joined. The Epworth League and the Saptist Union have drawn somewhat on the Christian Endeavors, many of those who dis-banded having joined these societies. The largest society in the state is at De-troit and contains 367 members. The smallest in the state is at Arcadia with six members, but the secretary writes that they are all "consecrated" mem-bers. At the close of the report the secretary announced that 1025 delegates were present exclusive of the Grand Rapids delegation. The announcement was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

A solo, "Rest in the Lord," was sung by Miss Emma Looms of this city, who was in good voice and who rendered her number effectively. Greeting From the Epworth. The Rev. W. A. Frye, a fraternal delegate, presented the greetings of the Epworth League with the following

Epworth League with the following pleasant words:

"Fellow Christian Workers—It affords me great pleasure to convey to this meeting the greetings of the State Epworth League. We may differ a little in name but not in aim. Our object is a common object. We are the same children of that common father. We are united against the enemy. We bid you God-speed in your work, and we join hand in and with you in lifting up our fallen brother. I am glad the church has opened a door at last through which the young life of the church can flow freely. The doctrines of the church the young life of the church can flow freely. The doctrines of the enext generation than they have ever been in the history of the church. The new theology of the times is being made in the Sanday stock. And I say again, we extend to you our friendliest and heartiest greetings, and we hope you will remember us in your prayers. May the Lord bless you in this couvention. May many be added to the church through the efforts of this convention."

With a few pleasant words the Rev. Mr. Irving introduced the Rev. O. P. Gifford of Chicago, the gentleman being warmly received. I notice, friends, that the last inceting of this convention is to be a consecration service. I am glad we are going to have a consecration service. Let us make a study of the word con-secration tonight. The old Hebrew word has two meanings, the one, "to set spart," which we will consider. We can get more work out of six days of work and one day of rest than we can out of seven days continuous work. The nebrews were taught by Muses that the Lord created the world in six days and rested the seventh, so Moses. told them to rest one-seventh of the time, to set apart or consecrate the Whatever his motive was in alloting that time, the result proved its wisdom. No one spot on earth is more sacred than another, yet if you should buy a farm of forty acres you would build your home on one spot of it and to that spot your thoughts would turn, as the Jews turn their faces in worship to Jerusalem, it is sacred to you. And if you set apart a spot of earth and erect upon it an edifice of brick and is consecrated to him. So you, by the solemn act of consecration, do set The attitude of prayer is an attitude of empty hands, but the attitude of cousecration is to stand before Him with full hands. Full with all the powers that God bas given you. It does not follow that if we all come with full hands we are all to come with the same fullness. No two men can come to Him with the same kind of fullness of powers or talents but each one shall bring back to him all the powers that he has given him. Seek you when you return to your home some simple thing to do. It is not some great things, but life's web is made of tiny threads and the shuttle of consecration weaves the threads back and forth, making a shining web. which the world cannot give and the world cannot take away is the reward of a consecrated heart which, at the last, will rest under the shadow of the wings of the Almighty." The Rev. Gifford's remarks were loudly applauded, great interest having been shown throughout the address, which was somewhat brief.

"Keep Your Colors Flying" was sting by the audience, followed by the clos-ing song, "Till We Meet Again," the diction being pronounced by the Rev. Frye.

Thus did Major L. H. Bean let out his duicet voice yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock when he opened the great Ray Warner horse sale at the West Michigan fair grounds. The sale of Antelode, the brown 2 year old, brown and owned by Ben Buell of Bronson, Mich., set the pace for the entire day't sales. Between two and three hundred horsemen from the south, west and Cantria were present when the sale opened. Grand Rapids was well represented. The buyers were shrewd to a marked degree and picked up some very pretty largains in the course of the day for remarkably low prices. Livery men, breeders and drivers watched the progress of the sale carefully and the managers were well satfully and the managers were well est-ished with the results. A score of vet-eraus from the home were on hand and declared their intention of posting and declared their intention of pooling issues and buying an army mule for their lame and halt comrades. Major Bean and his assistants established themselves at the main entrance of the horse barns and all animals were led out to them and either driven in sulkey or led for two or three minutes before the buyers. The bids came briskly in $5 and $10 clips and no sale occupied more than five minutes. All sales were strictly cash and most of the purchases were at once taken to the city or shipped out of town. Just thirty-eight animals were sold yesterday the aggreate price being $4.810. Major Bean gave a bio-graphy of each entry, the agents of the horse papers hustled ma fully, the advertisements, bills and catalogues of stock breeders and veterinary surgeons were distributed lavishly. Major Bean yelled brokenly: "Hot stuff, read your primers, look up their records, sold, by gracious, sold," and the game went merrily on until 4:20 in the afternoon, when business was declared off until

The management are looking carefully after the interests of both buyers and sellers. The sale is conducted at advertised, on strictly business principles, and no chinnanigan.
